Hi Fred, you probably don't remember me but we used to share a big old house on State St. I think it was back in the late 70's. There were, I believe, five of us renting that old haunted house. There's a used car lot there now. I remember some pretty good times the bunch of us had- let's see if I can remember there was you and Bimbo, Gary and Jamie and me. Remember that old yellow car with the busted front seat and when you hit the gas, everybody up front would fly backwards and your foot would come off the pedal and make the car slow down, causing everyone to fly back forward and there's this car lurching down the road. Or the time you and I went to visit your brother at work one night- it was cold and the roads were snow covered. We were too busy b.s.ing I hadn't noticed we missed the turn, went airborne and ended up in the middle of a cornfield. And who can forget the elf? Anyway, I think you had a lot of friends probably more than you know. Take care, buddy. My sincerest condolences to your family. Jerry
