Cousin Ken was my card-playing opponent growing up and although I didn't see him often as adults, we always had fun when we did. He and my husband could talk for hours about everything - he had a wide-range of knowledge (and opinions) on topics from engineering to politics!

This is from my older brother Gary Fix"Kenny and his older brother Ricky were same ages as my younger brother and me. As cousins, we always looked forward to family get togethers and felt like part of Kenny's family when we visited. One memory I have is a sleep over at my house in the country. The 4 of us (early teens) ended up in a corn field in the night darkness, throwing corn cobs at anything that moved. Mostly at each other but no one was hurt. All good fun. God Bless Ken and his family. Gary"
